2. On 6 April, the Chairman briefed the DCI Human Resources Committee on technology transfer concerns; the Chairmen of the TTIC Subcommittees outlined significant information needs regarding collection activity; and lawyers from Justice and from CIA discussed real and imagined legal constraints on human source reporting. An objective of such briefings and discussions is, of course, to encourage increased and improved reporting on technology transfer issues. ☐

The DDCI recently appointed ☐ as the Intelligence Community liaison person to work with the National Academy of Sciences' Panel studying "National Security Regulations on Technology Transfer and Scientific and Technological Activities of Universities and Professional Societies." The Panel met for the first time on 16-17 April, and ☐ attended a number of the sessions. It is anticipated that several Intelligence Community briefings will be requested for the 27-28 May Panel meeting, including the TTIC/COMEX briefing on the role of the Intelligence Community in the S&T review process. ☐ also has asked that 10-15 interesting exchanges cases be outlined and developed for a second briefing to be given by Chairman COMEX; these will emphasize the national security-related significance of technologies being sought by exchangees and commercial visitors. ☐
